ED JANNING
1925-1985

DAYTON, Ohio, September 26, 1985 -- Ed Janning, director of the Cooperative Education Program at the University of Dayton, died Wednesday, September 25, at Kettering Memorial Hospital. He was 59 years old.

A native of Cleveland, Janning received a bachelor's degree in math from UD in 1951. He then remained at UD as a project leader at the Research Institute, while working on a masters degree in management, which he received from Xavier University in 1963.

Janning left UD in 1969, but returned in 1977, as the cooperative education coordinator for arts, sciences and business majors. In November of 1978, he became acting director of the Co-op Program, and by 1979 he had received a special recognition award from the Ohio Cooperative Education Association for "exceptional contributions" to the association during the 1979 membership year. He became director of the Co-op program in 1980, and served in that capacity until his death.

While at UD, he served as president of the UD University Colleagues in 1980, and he was a member of the Credit Committee of the Uni-Day Credit Union. He was also active in many other organizations on campus. He was a past president of the Downtown Dayton Optimists, past chairman of the Business Retention and Expansion Committee of the Dayton Area Chamber of Commerce and served as officer of both local and national sections of the American Society for Information Sciences.

He was survived by his wife, Rita, and four children. The family has requested that donations be made to the Hipple Laboratory for Cancer Research or the University of Dayton.

Visitation will be at the Meyer and Boehmer Funeral Home, in Dayton, on Friday, September 27, from 6-8 p.m. A prayer service will be held on Saturday, September 28, at 9:30 a.m., at the funeral home. The Mass of Christian Burial will follow at 10 a.m., at St. Albert Cathloic Church in Kettering. Internment will be at Calvary Cemetery, immediately following Mass.
